Boeing proposes 'final' offer to striking workers

ALLISON LAMPERT & DAVID SHEPARDSON

BOEING MADE A "best and final" pay offer to thousands of striking workers on Monday, but its largest union declined to put it to a vote, saying the planemaker had refused to bargain over the proposal that fell short of members' demands. The US planemaker offered to reinstate a performance bonus, improve retirement benefits and double a ratification bonus to $6,000 if the workers accept the offer by Friday, according to a letter sent to International Association of Machinists and Aerospace

Workers officials by the company. Boeing is under intensifying pressure to end the strike that could cost it several billion dollars, fraying the company's already-strained finances and threatening a downgrade of its credit rating. But IAM District 751 said it would not hold a new vote on the offer, which is contingent on being approved by Friday and was not negotiated with the union. "Logistically we don't have the ability to set up a vote for 33,000 people in a few days like that anyway. Plus, it missed the mark on many of the things our members said were important to them," said Jon Holden, the

■ The US planemaker offered to reinstate a performance bonus, improve retirement benefits and double a ratification bonus to $6,000 if the workers accept the offer

■ More than 32,000 Boeing workers in Portland and the Seattle area walked off the job on September 13 in the union's first strike since 2008

■ Boeing is under intensifying pressure to end the strike that could cost it several billion dollars, fraying the firm's finances and threatening a downgrade of its credit rating

■ The workers, who have sought 40% higher pay as well as the restoration of a performance bonus, rejected a previous offer by the firm president of IAM District 751 who is the lead negotiator on the Boeing contract. He said the union planned to survey members on Monday evening to get their views on the latest Boeing proposal. "We are not obligated to vote

● CENTRAL BANK TO PROVIDE $113-BN LIQUIDITY SUPPORT

China unleashes stimulus to boost ailing economy

BLOOMBERG
September 24

CHINA'S CENTRAL BANK unveiled a broad package of monetary stimulus measures to revive the world's second-largest economy, underscoring mounting alarm within Xi Jinping's government over slowing growth and depressed investor confidence. People's Bank of China governor Pan Gongsheng cut a key short-term interest rate and announced plans to reduce the amount of money banks must hold in reserve to the lowest level since at least 2018, appearing at a rare briefing alongside two of the country's other top financial regulators in Beijing. That marked the first time reductions to both measures were revealed on the same day since at least 2015. Those moves were followed by a slew of other announcements that fueled gains in China's beleaguered equity market. The central bank chief also unveiled a package to shore up the nation's troubled property sector, including lowering borrowing costs on as much as $5.3 trillion in mortgages and easing rules for second-home purchases. For the nation's stocks, Pan said the central bank will provide at least $113 billion of liquidity support, adding that officials were studying setting up a market stabilisation fund. While several of the measures had been anticipated, the highly publicised rollout showed authorities are taking seriously warnings that China risks missing its growth target of around 5% this year. The policy barrage likely puts that goal back within reach, but doubts remain whether it was enough to break China's longer-term deflationary pressure and entrenched real estate crisis. Authorities are yet to unveil more forceful measures to boost demand among consumers, which analysts view as key missing ingredient for the economy. "It's hard to say what silver bullet can help resolve everything," said Ken Wong, Asian equity portfolio specialist at Eastspring Investments Hong Kong. "While it's good to have monetary easing measures that are accommodative, more needs to be done in order to help solidify fourth quarter growth."

Lanka Prez's push for economic change leaves IMF deal in limbo

Colombo, September 24

New Sri Lankan Prime Minister Harini Amarasuriya is seen with President Anura Kumara Dissanayake during her swearing-in ceremony, in Colombo on Tuesday

SRI LANKA'S NEW PRESIDENT won the election decisively, but his toughest task still lies ahead as he seeks to balance promises to aid the nation's poor against the need to keep crucial supplies of cash flowing from the International Monetary Fund (IMF). Marxist-leaning firebrand Anura Kumara Dissanayake, whose tax cut pledges won over many of the two-thirds of his people mired in poverty, takes power as Sri Lanka emerges from its most punishing economic crisis in 70 years and its first international debt default. But jumpstarting the economy while making good on promises to expand welfare, rework the $2.9-billion IMF bailout and negotiate better deals with debtors, presents a difficult conundrum for the island nation and its investors. Adding to the challenge, Dissanayake had to appoint a new prime minister on Tuesday - college professor and first-time lawmaker Harini Amarasuriya - after the former prime minister resigned on Monday, dissolving the cabinet. "We've never had such a situation," said Bhavani Fonseka, senior researcher at the Colombo-based think tank Centre for Policy Alternatives. Dissanayake's pledge to take a tough approach to corruption appealed to millions desperate for a fairer future. But his promises to change the param-

Blackstone, Vista reach $8.4-bn deal to buy Smartsheet

REUTERS
September 24

WORKPLACE COLLABORATION SOFTWARE maker Smartsheet will be taken private by buyout firms Vista Equity Partners and Blackstone in a deal worth $8.4 billion, the companies said on Tuesday. Smartsheet shareholders will receive a cash payment of $56.50 per share, an 8.5% premium over the last closing price of $52.09. Shares of the Bellevue, Washington-based company hit an over two-year high and were up 6% in early trading. Smartsheet develops software that offers more features and capabilities than Microsoft's Excel, targeting organizations seeking to manage, track, and automate workflows through a unified platform. The company serves 85% of Fortune 500 companies, according to its website, including industry giants such as Pfizer, Procter & Gamble, and American Airlines. The take-private deal also comes at a time when private equity deal-making has been on the rise, with an increase of 41% in deal volumes during the first half of the year, driven by several take-private deals.

Two-day death toll from Israeli strikes in Lebanon crosses 550

ASSOCIATED PRESS
Beirut, September 24

THE LEBANESE HEALTH authorities on Tuesday raised the death toll from two days of Israeli airstrikes targeting Hezbollah militants to 558. Palestinian officials in Gaza, meanwhile, said new Israeli strike killed at least seven people in the southern city of Khan Younis.

Israel's military says it will do "whatever is necessary" to push Hezbollah away from Lebanon's border with Israel. Israel and Hezbollah have been trading fire since the Israel-Hamas war began. On Monday, Israel launched hundreds of airstrikes in southern and eastern Lebanon, killing nearly 500 people and wounding more than 1,600 others.

Thousands of people fled southern Lebanon, jamming the main highway to Beirut in the biggest exodus since the 2006 Israel-Hezbollah war. It's a staggering toll for a country still reeling from a deadly attack on communication devices the week before. Lebanon blamed the attacks on Israel, but Israel did not confirm or deny its responsibility. Hezbollah again launched some 100 projectiles toward Israel on Tuesday, the Israeli military said.

Journalists gather at the scene of a building that was hit by an Israeli airstrike in Beirut's southern suburbs on Tuesday. Meanwhile, the Israeli military says it has killed a commander with Hezbollah's missile and rocket unit in a strike in Beirut. It said Ibrahim Kobeisi, who it said was responsible for launches toward Israel, was killed Tuesday. The military said "other key commanders" were with Kobeisi at the time of the strike, but it did not say whether any of them had been killed or injured. On the other hand, the UN refugee agency in Lebanon says a Lebanese woman who had been working for the agency for 12 years, one of her sons and a cleaner employed by the agency have been killed in Israeli airstrikes.
